A swimsuit is all about making you feel confident and ready to take on the water. However, actually shopping for swimsuits is probably not, we daresay, anybody's favorite activity, especially in person, what with harsh fluorescent lighting and the limited options and sizes in-store. That's why shopping online can be the better way to go.

Shopping for swimwear online affords you a comforting kind of privacy. You can find cuter styles, shop the season's trends, scour smaller brands to find something unique, and search for something that fits your budget. From affordable to high fashion to gender-neutral and maternity styles, these are the brands that offer a variety of aesthetics, shapes, and price points. New tricks for old phone apps

J.D. Biersdorfer The New York Times

When the iPhone landed in 2007, Apple's pre-installed apps for weather, stocks and a calculator were pretty basic. Once the more versatile third-party apps hit the scene a year later, it was easy to forget about those default offerings. Over time, though, Apple and Google have added many fresh features to those old apps, and added new offerings.

Why use an app from Big Tech? Well, you're already using software by the company, and there's less chance of malware. But don't forget to check the privacy policy on any app you download to see what personal data is being collected.

Here's a quick guide to several Apple- and Google-made apps — and how to delete them if you still never use them.

Updates to Apple's standbys

If you haven't opened Apple's Weather app in a few years, it has had a major overhaul after Apple bought the rival Dark Sky weather app in 2020 and integrated its technology. Apple Weather now includes precipitation alerts, hyperlocal forecasts and color radar maps. Evening on Antique Row celebrates 28th year supporting Historical Society's education programs

More than 1,500 people attended the 28th year of Evening on Antique Row with Young Friends of the Historical Society of Palm Beach County (HSPBC) on Saturday, April 1. The most stylish street party in South Florida was reimagined once again with new entertainment and restaurants.

Six blocks of South Dixie Highway in the nationally acclaimed antiques district of West Palm Beach were transformed with live music, live art creations, pop-up shops, Video Booth 360, vintage vehicles from Ragtops Motorcars, and exhibits from the Richard and Pat Johnson Palm Beach County History Museum.

Shops offered complimentary beverages and treats, and a selection of 17th- to 20th-century antiques, fine and decorative arts, furnishings, and collectibles for purchase. Restaurants providing fabulous food included: Aioli, Apricot & Olive, Celis, Don Ramon, Grato, Guaco Go, Howley's, Joseph's Classic Market, Lynora's, Sarah's Slow Jam, Sushi Jo, Vinyl Fish Club, and Yolk.

The Palm Beach Illustrated/Florida Design VIP Experience was created by Botanica, Atlas Event Rentals, and Nomad by Sean Rush, featuring stunning lights and music that kept guests dancing. The private cabanas were also a highlight and included a top-shelf private bar and tastings from The French Wine Merchant.

All attendees had access to a meet-and-greet with Palm Beach Post Executive Editor Rick Christie, a biergarten with the Volkstanzgruppe German folk dancers and tastings presented by the American German Club, music from the Willow Jazz Trio and Palm Beach Symphony, and a performance by Ballet Florida.

Evening on Antique Row raises support for the education programs of the nonprofit Historical Society of Palm Beach County, which collects, preserves, and shares Palm Beach County's rich history and cultural heritage. The event also pays tribute and attracts new customers to the distinctive Antique Row community. Cooperation between the businesses and nonprofit HSPBC is vital to success for both, as well as the community as a whole. This year more businesses participated than ever before.

The Historical Society of Palm Beach County is a nonprofit organization founded in 1937 to collect, preserve, and share the history of Palm Beach County and the larger context of Florida. The HSPBC operates and maintains the Richard and Pat Johnson Palm Beach County History Museum, an admission-free institution featuring high quality, interactive exhibits. More than $600,000 raised for local children's charity partners

Children's charities throughout Palm Beach County will be granted funds raised from the Boca West Children's Foundation (BWCF) 11th Annual $100,000 Golf Challenge. The March 27 event at Boca West Country Club, which raised more than $600,000, included brunch, golf, a cocktail reception and dinner.

Funds from the golf challenge support more than 30 participating charities, including Boca Helping Hands and its Backpacks Program, which provides weekend meals to food-insecure elementary students; the Fuller Center's family empowerment team, early education programs, elementary, afterschool and teen programs that benefit more than 700 children and their families; and Sweet Dream Makers, which provides underserved parents and children with safe, clean beds.

Participating charities vied for a portion of the $100,000 awarded during the tournament. Each charity received between $3,300 and $10,000, depending on its team's placement. Over the past 13 years, BWCF has granted more than $18 million for projects that serve at-risk youth.

The first-place charity was Sweet Dream Makers and the low-gross winner was the Unicorn Children's Foundation team.

"The Annual Golf Challenge is our signature fundraiser and so many people from the community come out to play a friendly round of golf to support local kids through their favorite charity," said BWCF Executive Director Pamela Weinroth. "The event sold out. We had a gorgeous day for golf and ended with a fabulous Boca West Country Club dinner."
